Questions 44 to 50 refer to the following passage.

Tarquinius, secundo anno postquam ex urbe expulsus est, contra Romanos bellum gessit. Ei auxilium a Porsena rege Etrusco datum est. Illo tempore Etrusci erant hostes Romanorum, et Porsena cum multis copiis Romam procedebat.

5 Romani, qui magnopere perterriti sunt quod mons Janiculum a Porsena facile occupatus erat, ex agris in urbem fugiebant. Liberi et feminae et servi intra muros ducti sunt.

Hostes postquam Janiculum ceperunt, celeriter ad flumen contenderunt. Vir fortis, Horatius Cocles, qui illo nomine
10 appellatus est quod in proelio oculum amiserat, primus magnum periculum sensit. Cocles, qui prope caput pontis forte positus erat, magna voce ad socios suos clamavit: "Cur fugitis, viri Romani? Nolite relinquere pontem. Nonne periculum sentitis? Si pontem relinquetis, hostes in urbem
15 mox venient. Eum igne et gladio delete! Contra Etruscos pugnabo! Ego corpore meo pontem defendam!"
